6th April 2011

The aim of the day

Massive public sector cuts and increasingly tight budgets are forcing major changes to FE provision. FE Colleges and providers need to ensure that they are fully aware of the implications for their provision if they are to make the best of the emerging situation. All managers and staff with responsibility for ALS will need to be clear about the challenges they face and the choices they must make. In particular, they will need to be proactive with regard to funding, planning and costing.

Hear the most up-to-date information from the sector's leading experts and learn what you can do to maximise your entitlement and allocation.
